The Carmel Pine Cone

Waiting impatiently to register for the Carmel Annual Bicycle Rodeo are some of the 49 entrants who showed up February 5 at Sunset playground to test their skills and have their bikes inspected for safety.

Before the event was rained out during the late morning, the skill test was completed with the following results: Boys, David Korpi, first; Charles Herman and Jon Benson, tied for second; Nick Moore, third. Kathy Walker took first place for girls; tied for second place were Terri Spear, Beth Thompson and Julie Brown; Beau Bell was third. The annual bike rodeo was sponsored by the Carmel Police Department, CUSD recreation department and the Kiwanis Club. —Richard Trueblood Photos

Council Approval Of Civic Center Challenged By Klenke Committee

In a letter to the Carmel City Council, Wallace E. Doolittle, acting chairman of The Klenke Committee, has requested "an immediate public hearing on the related subject of the use of the Junipero and Fourth Street property and the Sunset complex," contending that "there has been no public hearing on these vital, inter-connected issues . . . "

The letter, dated February 19 and released to the local press two days before its receipt at city hall yesterday, further charges the council with planning to spend "between $250,000 and $400,000" on the Junipero property alone, "under the dubious right and duty to make an adminisrative decision."

While no official reply had been made yesterday, Mayor Herbert Blanks stated that the entire matter of a civic center was discussed by a large committee of citizens who helped develop the Carmel General Plan, by the planning commission and by the council, all of whose meetings have been open to the public. The general plan, debated for some five years by these bodies and adopted in February, 1959, included the location of a civic center at Junipero and Fourth.

"Financing major capital items in the general plan was one of the major problems," the mayor explained. The city council, therefore, after extensive hearings, adopted a hostelry tax in 1962 providing that "one-half of the net proceeds of this tax is to be devoted to general capital outlay projects as set forth in the general plan of Carmel."

Mayor Blanks offered further comment on the accusations of the Klenke group. Since adoption, in November 1963, of a report recommending the implementation of a part of the general plan by the construction of a police station and corporation yard, "the council and the planning commission have followed the orderly process prescribed by law in the development of this plan." Mr. Blanks also referred to a remark made by Councilman James Buffington at the last meeting. "The voters elect us to work these things out," said Mr. Buffington during a discussion which culminated in the approval to accept bids on March 9 for construction of the first phase of the civic center.

Figures from the records of the city clerk indicate that since November, 1963, 13 meetings have been held by the city council and five by the planning commission concerning the development of a civic center on the Junipero and Fourth avenue site. Between 1963 and the adoption of the general plan in 1959, many more meetings, also open to the public, took place.

Scenic Residents Ask One-Way Traffic

Lewis Brown, whose residence is at Scenic and 11th avenue, is circulating a petition among Scenic drive residents and other interested voters requesting the Carmel City Council to limit the road to one-way traffic, also post speed limits. As of yesterday, Mr. Brown had collected 64 signatures but stated that he had been inactive for several days because of illness.

Traffic hazards to motorists and pedestrians, crowded parking conditions and general clutter were some of the reasons for the petition which Mr. Brown expects to have ready for presentation at the March 9 council meeting.

Six Cities Renews Fight Against Humble Oil Co. Moss Landing Permit

The Six Cities has again "picked up the ball" in opposing the granting of a permit for Humble Oil Company to establish a refinery at Moss Landing. Legal action was instigated last week following the ruling by Superior Court Judge Richard Harris of San Luis Obispo which denied a petition for a referendum on the matter.

On Friday, Carmel City Attorney William B. Burleigh, representing the Six Cities organization, filed an amended petition in the county clerk's office for a writ of mandate to prevent construction of an oil refinery at Moss Landing. A hearing on the petition, which raises new constitutional questions, has been set for April 11 at 10 a.m.

The attorney contends that the interim industrial zoning ordinance at Moss Landing is stated in terms which violate the equal protection and due process provisions of the United States Constitution.

Constitutional guarantees of due process of law, he further maintains, are violated by the presence of a refinery in an area which relies primarily upon agriculture and tourist trade for its economic well-being. Alleging that action within 30 days is required by law, Mr. Burleigh adds that the petitioners were denied the right to due process because the Monterey County Planning Commission failed to act upon Humble Oil's application within the 30-day period.

William H. Church, chairman of Six Cities, said in a prepared statement that the organization is preparing to continue the fight against refineries and other smog-producing types of industries, including Humble, in Monterey County as long as necessary. He stated, however, in a plea for financial help, "We are facing a legal battle which can cost us as much as an additional $30,000. We believe that winning is worth it, especially when one considers the cost of losing.

"Our supporters should know that our fight in Monterey County is gaining national attention because smog versus pure air is an issue in virtually every city in the nation today.

"We urge every citizen in this county to study the facts that have been made available by unbiased experts who have pointed out what petrochemical industries do to the soil, to the air and to the water, and how they destroy plant and animal life and endanger human health."

Small contributions as well as large will be welcomed by the Six Cities Fund, according to Mr. Church. Interested citizens may send donations to the fund to Box 1915, Carmel. It is also suggested that an aroused community continue to express its disapproval of plans for a refinery at Moss Landing through letters to the directors of Humble Oil and its parent company, Standard Oil of New Jersey.

DOMINOES, ANYONE?

Men are needed to join in playing dominoes at the Carmel Foundation Town House on Tuesday afternoons. Walter Phelps Jr. has offered to teach the newer version of the current "in" game to anyone interested. For more information, phone 624-1588.

Teachers Propose Salary Increase

If the proposed override tax for the Carmel Unified School District is approved, the Association of Carmel Teachers may have to make a choice between the amount of salary increases requested and the establishment of a health and insurance program to be financed all or in part by the district. A suggestion for incentive pay, to be superimposed on the base salary schedule presented to the trustees by the association's salary committee last night, also must be reconsidered in the light of funds available.

Speaking for the association, Albert Kolb, co-chairman of the salary committee, and Marvin Patterson, president, expressed the opinion that the majority of teachers would prefer a downward revision in the proposed salary schedule to the institution of an insurance plan.

Trustee Hilton Bialek asked "Do you have any idea of what the total cost of the increase in the salary schedule would be?" The teacher representatives present informed the board that they did not have an estimate of this, nor of the probable cost to the district of an insurance program covering teachers and, ideally, their dependents.

Remarking on the lack of data available and the fact that the proposed 1966-67 schedule is based on the principle of compound interest, horizontally and vertically, Board Chairman Robert Newton suggested that the teachers' association research these matters with a view to presenting alternatives to the board. In this the teachers concurred and were offered technical assistance by Mr. Bair.

Both ACT members and trustees agreed that, funds permitting, an improved salary schedule will

Past, Present Colleagues Honor Florence Josselyn

Florence Josselyn, who retired yesterday from the Carmel Planning Commission after 19 successive years of service, was honored by her colleagues with a framed resolution of appreciation for her "unflagging interest, her friendly cooperation, and her dedication to the preservation of all that is desirable in Carmel."

The resolution was signed by 17 former members of the commission who served with Mrs. Josselyn in the past, as well as the present members. Mrs. Josselyn served on the commission from the time of its original inception.

She also received a huge spray of pink and white carnations and a cake decorated with pink roses which turned the meeting into a party. The cake was inscribed "To Florence Josselyn for 19 years' loyal service on the Planning Commission; Carmel thanks you. March 1947-February 1966."

J. B. Martin also resigned from the commission yesterday after a term and a half because he has moved away from Carmel. Chairman Dorothy von Meier presented him with a carnation boutonniere.

In the planning commission's annual meeting which followed the regular business session, Dorothea Roberts and Bernard Laiolo were sworn in to fill the two vacancies, and George Willox began his fourth consecutive term. Members continuing to serve include Mrs. von Meier, Glenn Leidig, William Godwin and Fred Keeble.

Mayor Herbert Blanks expressed his gratitude to the retiring commissioners, adding a special tribute to Mrs. Josselyn. Her six years on the library board which preceded her appointment to the planning commission, gave her "a record of 25 unbroken years of voluntary dedicated service to her community," the mayor said. He welcomed Mrs. Roberts as an artist, a businesswoman, and a resident of Carmel for 44 years. Mr. Laiolo, he said, has lived in the town for 21 years and has already served as a member of the advisory board for electrical standards.

The new commission unanimously re-elected Mrs. von Meier chairman, chose Leidig as vice chairman, and "reaffirmed its confidence" in city clerk Hugh Bayless as secretary.

Committees will be organized and chairmen appointed during the coming week.

Congratulations to Bill Askew and his street maintenance crew for the new walkway on the Sixth Street side of Devendorf Park. Not only is it very pretty and practical, its handsome railing will keep us unsteady tennis-shoed oldtimers from always falling off into the shrubbery.

We finally got a copy of Yodee Johnson's famous party poem, which she tells us she "inherited from Edward N. Saunders Jr., one of the nation's fine raconteurs and St. Paul, Minnesota's most beloved tippler."

The horse and mule live 20 years
And nothing know of wine and beers.
The goat and sheep at 20 die
And never taste of scotch and rye.
The cow drinks water by the ton
And at 18 is almost done.
The dog at 15 cashes in
Without the aid of rum and gin.
The cat in milk and water soaks
And then at 12 short years it croaks.
The modest, sober, bone-dry hen
Lays eggs for nogs, then dies at 10.
All animals are strictly dry;
They sinless live and swiftly die.
But sinful, gin-full, rum-soaked men
Survive for three score years and 10;
And some of us, the mighty few,
Stay pickled till we're 92.

The wives' auxiliaries of the Monterey County Medical and Bar Associations have a reciprocal arrangement whereby they participate in each other's fund raising functions. Last week the medical ladies gave a lovely luncheon at the Mark Thomas and one of the hostesses greeted Mrs. Ralph Thompson Jr. with "What a treat to see so many legal wives!"

When a friend of our daughter's dropped in the other day to see her, he manfully stayed and visited with us awhile, and after a minute I could hardly bear to listen to him. Every other word he used was "like." "Steve," I burst out, "for Pete's sake, don't talk that way. You're too smart. Now, give me a sentence without using the word 'like.'" And quick as lightning he came back, "Like what?"

I have two little incidental intelligence notes today. (I like to use these items whenever I can because I know there are those among you who collect such trivia and because it helps to fill up the column.)

There are 20 million more radio receiving sets in the United States than there are people.

No, there is no connection between the two.

Last weekend the family of a lady we know went off to Yosemite, leaving her to recuperate from a recent back ailment. It came on cocktail time the first night and our friend began to get a bit lonely. "I'll just go over to the Carmel Rancho June Simpson's," she said to herself, "and have a little drink. Nobody knows me there so it'll be all right." She opened the door and groped her way to an empty seat. When she could finally see, good grief! There was Coldie Whitman and Bob McGinnis and Mary Engelbrecht and Clem Ale and about 10 other people she knew. "Fat chance a mouse has of playing in this bar!" she wailed.

In honor of the occasion I thought I'd say something nice about George Washington. You know, whenever possible we should all try to speak well of the dead. But I looked up in all my books and found that, great, brilliant, brave and honorable as he was, there still wasn't any getting around the fact that George was a dull fellow. One of my authorities, for instance, capsules his character study by stating that his figure "bulked large" in American literature and legend. Well now, you take a guy with one of those large, bulking literary figures — the eulogy's gone just about as far as it can go. No, I'll never be able to top what I said last year: As President of the United States of America, he was "A No. 1."

But I did find some new dope on his holiday. Though celebrated in some fashion in all states and territories, it is not a legal holiday in Wisconsin, Idaho, Nevada or Oklahoma and in Texas only banks close. In Long Beach, North Carolina, they commemorate it with a fox round-up; in Madison, Florida, with a livestock show and on St. Croix they have donkey races! See what I mean?

MONDAY LECTURE ON WILLS, ESTATES

Fourth in the series of The Law and the Citizens Lectures, "What You Should Know About Wills and Estates," will be given by Elizabeth A. Helfrich Monday night at 8 p.m. in Brey Hall, Carmel High School. The lectures are sponsored by the Carmel Adult School, the Monterey County Bar Association and the American Association of University Women and are open to the public at no charge.

FOREIGN SERVICE OFFICER VISITED

John P. Becker, a recent visitor with local ties, exemplifies the U.S. Department of State's policy of strengthening communications between individual officers and their home town neighbors. Such meetings, it is felt, make it possible for members of the Foreign Service to familiarize themselves with the thinking of their fellow citizens who, in turn, can get to know the men and women who represent them abroad and learn directly of their work and experience. Foreign service personnel are encouraged to meet with community groups while on home leave, although such meetings are not considered official assignments.

The young foreign service officer and his wife, the former Priscilla Clark of Carmel, were here on home leave after consulate duty in Saint John, New Brunswick, Canada. His new assignment is with the Bureau of Economic Affairs in Washington, D.C. Mr. Becker also served in Stuttgart, Germany, where the couple's daughter, Joan, was born two and a half years ago.

While on the West Coast, Mr. Becker met informally with people on the Monterey Peninsula as well as in the San Francisco Bay Area, "listening, learning and discussing," as he said. "With a 4,000 mile boundary between Canada and the United States, there are many complex problems to be solved," Mr. Becker explained. Among these are water resources, electrical power, trade agreements and the exchange of manpower and capital between the two countries.

The new Ottawa Agreement, according to Mr. Becker, is a prime example of successful negotiation. Through the accord, Canada will be shipping autos made in that country by American firms with Canadian labor, with benefits to both nations.

When first assigned to New Brunswick, the foreign service officer observed, development was slowed by lack of capital. Recently, however, with self-generated and American financial resources, the rate of growth has become rapid. A U.S.-owned oil refinery of considerable size has increased employment and known deposits of base metals are now being exploited. Unemployment, formerly running from 10% to 12%, with pockets much higher, has greatly decreased.

The career officer is a graduate of Brown University in Providence, Rhode Island. He served in the U.S. Army, attending also the Defense Language Institute at the Presidio of Monterey, and joined the Foreign Service in 1961.

While in Carmel, the Beckers were guests of Mrs. Becker's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Howard Clark.

"MAKALU" TOPIC OF TALK BY DR. MEYER

The adult program of the Youth Science Center will feature Dr. L. Bruce Meyer of Carmel as guest speaker. Dr. Meyer will talk and show slides on "The 1954 Expedition to Makalu," an exploration and attempt to climb the 27,790-foot Himalayan mountain. The slides show the expedition trekking across Nepal, the Nepalese people and their way of life and the attempt of the mountain climb.

Dr. Meyer is an experienced mountain climber and is the chairman of the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club.

The program will take place at Monterey High School on Tuesday at 8 p.m. It is open to the public and admission is free.

Art News . . . .

Paintings by Carmel artist John Cunningham, director of the Carmel Art Institute and last year's Carmel Art Association president, will be on view at the Carmel Foundation Town House during the month of March. The Town House, located on Lincoln and Eighth, is open to the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

A workshop in art for children, sponsored by the peninsula chapter of the American Federation of Arts and conducted by Louise James of Carmel Valley, will begin on Saturday in the Sunset Center cafeteria. Consisting of ten sessions on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to noon, the workshop will feature painting and collage, including an experiment in life size three-dimensional painting.

A student of the Santa Fe School of Art and the Kansas City Art Institute, Mrs. James is a working painter and sculptress and has taught children's art for 12 years.

The classes are open to all children between the ages of nine and 12. For information on fees, materials and reservations, phone AFA headquarters (624-2918).

Donald Teague of Carmel will be represented in the 141st annual exhibition of the National Academy of Design opening at the academy's galleries in New York today. The exhibit, which continues through March 20, includes 337 works by members and nonmembers. The National Academy of Design is the oldest art group in New York City and operates, in addition to its galleries, the oldest school of fine arts there.

Travelers to Southern California may wish to know of the exhibition, "Nehru: His Life and His India," which will open Wednesday at the California State Museum of Science and Industry in Exposition Park in Los Angeles. Created by Ray and Charles Eames, the display is under the sponsorship of the California Arts Commission. It has been shown in New York, London and the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C.

The exhibit has been embellished by several precious art pieces and artifacts from the private collection of Mrs. B. K. Nehru, wife of the Ambassador of India. Included, also, are three ancient bronzes from the Madras Museum.

MPC Sponsors Duo Concert March 5 By Baller, Rejto

Pianist Adolph Baller and cellist Gabor Rejto, two members of the famed Alma Trio which last appeared in concert at Monterey Peninsula College in 1965, will return to MPC Saturday for a concert of chamber music at 8:30 p.m. in the college music hall. The public is invited to attend free of charge and no tickets will be required for admission.

As members of the Alma Trio, which was organized in 1944 at the Alma Estate of Yehudi Menuhin in the Santa Cruz Mountains, Baller and Rejto have toured Canada, New Zealand, Australia, Europe, and the U.S.S.R. in addition to making many coast-to-coast tours of the United States.

In his own right and as accompanist and assisting artist for Menuhin, Adolph Baller has become widely known through his recitals and orchestral appearances. He won wide acclaim as guest artist with the San Francisco Symphony under the direction of Pierre Monteux. He is also a composer, having written quartets, songs, piano compositions and sonatas for violin and piano.

Gabor Rejto is a native of Budapest, where he studied at the Royal Academy of Music. He later became a pupil of Pablo Casals in Spain and France and had an extensive European concert career, appearing as soloist with the leading orchestras of major European cities and in recitals in London, Paris and Stockholm. Head of the cello and chamber music departments at the Eastman School of Music from 1949 to 1954, he is now chairman of the string department at the University of Southern California. With Adolph Baller he has given numerous sonata recitals in the United States, New Zealand and Western Europe.

The Baller-Rejto Duo will replace Duo di Roma, originally scheduled to appear March 5 at MPC.

Christian Science Centennial Plans

The board of directors of The Mother Church, First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, has announced plans for a year-long observance of the 100th anniversary of the church. Major events will include a worldwide speaking tour by the editor in chief of the Christian Science Monitor, Erwin D. Canham, the publication of a new book titled "A Century of Christian Science Healing" and the start of work on a new "Church Center" construction program.

The centennial stems from events in 1866 which marked the turning point in the life of Mary Baker Eddy and began her pioneering of a world religious movement. Author of the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," she founded a church which now includes 3,300 branches in more than 50 countries.

Also timed for the centennial year will be a number of new steps in the graphic design of church publications. Officials are looking upon the observances primarily as preparation for the "second century" of Christian Science in the belief that the concepts of the religion—considered so revolutionary during its first 100 years—will be more widely and readily understood in the years ahead.

That Christianity is a divine science is one of the basic premises of the church and spiritual healing is considered to be one of the natural outcomes when the individual begins to commit himself to working out of his life from the standpoint of this and other precepts.

Over several decades, a structure of church organization and government was evolved. The Church Manual, written by Mrs. Eddy, provides the general framework, with a five-member board of directors in Boston to conduct the business of The Mother Church. Within this framework, complete local self-government is provided for each of the individual branches, permitting them to elect their own officers, set up their own by-laws and make all major decisions by a vote of their own membersip. The form of worship, however, remains universal in the church.

Today, the church has a healing ministry carried on by more than 7,000 full-time public Christian Science practitioners in over 40 countries who deal with humanity's moral and physical problems and conditions. There is also an extensive network of public reading rooms, a board of lectureship, an international daily newspaper, a radio series; also, an armed services ministry and student organizations.

All Saints' Lenten Services Begin With Folk Song Mass

An American "Folk Song Mass" with guitar accompaniment will be sung during the Parish Eucharist in All Saints' Episcopal Church on Sunday at 9:15 a.m. The first of a series of celebrations of the Holy Communion in different historical styles, the "Folk Song Mass" was composed by Ian Mitchell, Episcopal chaplain at Northwestern University. The Reverend Sam Smith, chaplain of York School and celebrant for the Eucharist, will be assisted by the rector and headmaster of the parish, the Reverend David Hill and the Reverend Peter Farmer. The Reverend Lloyd Johnston will have charge of the youth group choir.

On succeeding Sundays in Lent, the 9:15 a.m. Parish Eucharists will be celebrated with special music in historical settings. On March 6, a mid-western town of the 1830's will be represented by Evangelistic hymns with reed organ; March 13, a solemn High Eucharist as performed in 14th Century England, with plainsong chant by the men's and boys' choir under the direction of John Gosling; March 20, a Byzantine Eucharist with music by the Orthodox Choir from the Presidio of Monterey. Concluding the series on March 27, Rabbi Maurice Lazowick of Temple Beth-El in Santa Cruz will speak on the Passover.

The public is invited to attend these services and to join members of the parish for coffee and discussion in the parish hall after each service.

Carmel Residents Wed

Now at home in their Carmel Knolls residence are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nielsen (the former Mrs. Mary Lou Shively of Carmel). The couple's marriage took place February 12 before a group of family members and friends at Mr. Nielsen's home, where Judge Eugene Harrah performed the simple ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Warren Knapp served as their attendants.

For her wedding, the bride wore a gown she had designed and made from floral-patterned silk the bridegroom had brought to her from Japan last year.

The new Mrs. Nielsen has two daughters, Janine, a student at Monterey Peninsula College, and Nancy, who attends Carmel High School. Her son Richard is now serving with the U.S. Army in Germany.

As a home economist of the University of California agricultural department, she has conducted numerous seminars in this area on home decoration and clothes styling.

Mr. Nielsen, a Carmelite of many years' standing, is the owner of Nielsen Brothers Market in Carmel.

The newlyweds, who enjoyed a brief honeymoon in Palm Springs following their wedding, plan to take a longer trip after Easter to the Windward Islands and Trinidad.

Myriad Activities

With the publication this month of the 1966 special issue of her magazine, Poetry Score, Jehanne Bietry Salinger (Mrs. Jerome Carlson) is very much in the news these days. Of five poets represented in this edition, editor Jehanne Bietry Salinger has dedicated a poem to the well known poet Kenneth Rexroth, whose workshop she attended some years ago. Carmel poet and businessman Joseph Danysh is given handsome space in the volume, too.

Concurrently with Poetry Score is the appearance in bookshops across the country of the beautifully illustrated art book on the Italian painter Michele Cascella, with text by Jehanne Salinger. In the book, she discusses the entire gamut of the work of this great artist who has had, and is having, exhibitions in European capitals and in the United States. Cascella had a one-man show some years ago at the Laky Art Gallery in Carmel.

Mrs. Carlson has also just completed the descriptive text in French for the catalog of Mr. Cascella's major retrospective exhibition to be held next Fall in Paris at Galerie Andre Weil.

She is now a teacher of the sixth grade at Hoover School in Stockton. She has two brothers, Charles W. Merrifield of San Jose and William P. Merrifield of Long Beach.

Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard D. Swain of Crockett and the brother of Mrs. H. A. Seybold of Carmel.

Willard is a graduate of San Jose State. A member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, he received his bachelor of science degree in marketing. He has been employed for the past five years with the Kellogg Sales Company in Stockton.

The couple plan to be married June 25 in the Carmel Presbyterian Church.

Stalked By "Flu" Bug

Carmel Pine Cone Editor Marjory Lloyd, who, with her husband, Frank, is taking a vacation in Hawaii, reports that the ubiquitous "flu" bug which is becoming so familiar to Californians caught up with her on the boat en route to the Islands. Still with fever, she haltingly descended the gangplank in Honolulu to be greeted by former Carmelites Mrs. Lucille Ray and Mrs. Lila Kawananakoa, also Mrs. Jim (Billie) Newmarch, currently sojourning there. Submerged in leis, Marjory took to bed again and watched from her windows the endless showers and rainbows. Now recuperated, she adds, "There is little sun, but it IS warm."

AFS EXCHANGE STUDENT AT KIWANIS

Miss Hare, a native of England, is spending a week in Carmel with Mr. Dawson's family. For the remainder of her year-long exchange visit, she is living with her American "adopted family," as she calls them, in Livingston in the San Joaquin Valley. In her talk to the Kiwanis, the young student made comparisons between England and the United States and spoke of her personal opinions about these differences.

Colorful Era Of Carmel Ends With Retirement Of Robert G. Leidig

A butcher named Dangerfield had no way of knowing that trouble was brewing the afternoon he ran across the street to the place of business operated by J. F. Devendorf to use one of Carmel's few telephones.

While he was gone, the stove in the back room exploded with a roar and within a matter of minutes the interior of the building was in flames, and within another matter of a few minutes, Carmel's brand-new volunteer fire department was on its way.

"It wasn't much of a department, really," says Robert G. Leidig, who was one of the 12 men who, armed in those days 60 years ago with a shovel and a galvanized water bucket apiece, took care of the conflagrations that occasionally got started in the city's small cluster of buildings.

Leidig remembers well the fire in Dangerfield's butcher shop because it was one of the first, and the worst, in which he participated as a young man new to the department, which was, in turn, new to Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Leidig had come to Carmel as a young man of 21, after trying his luck in Monterey, in San Francisco, in Los Angeles, and finally back to Monterey again. He was born in Vandalia, Ill.

"There was an 8-foot fence running around the outside of the shop, and it was just starting to catch when we got there," he remembers about the butcher shop fire. "The glass windows were so hot no one could even touch them. We tore the fence down to stop the spread, then worked like fury to hold the fire to the one building. We held it."

Perhaps it was this fire, or maybe it was others that followed, that prompted public subscriptions to provide the city with something more sophisticated and up-to-date than shovels and buckets, plus the rolled up sacks and a few lengths of garden hose carried by the volunteers.

"The folks around here gave us enough money to buy a hand-pulled chemical cart, and my family provided a place to park it," he says. "Lumber and energy were donated, and a building, or fire station was built on Ocean near Dolores.

"This was the beginnings of Carmel Chemical No. 1, in about 1915. Then we needed some sort of an alarm system, so the Church of the Wayfarer told us we could count on the use of their bell. We used this until we got some more money from the citizens to buy a siren — a kind of soft-sounding, one-note sort of thing we found in Pacific Grove and bought from the constable."

With a siren, there ensued a search for a suitable place to put it. The owner of a building on Dolores north of Ocean told the smoke-eaters they could put it in the belfry of his place. It was installed.

In time, and by dint of much persuasion, eight water hydrants were installed — four of them on Ocean and four more on Monte Verde. A hose-cart and hose was acquired from Monterey, and put into action. But the hose soon was to be proved too short.

"A fire broke out in a house on Monte Verde and about Eighth," the veteran recalls. "We hooked the hose to the last hydrant, and ran it across a vacant lot, but it lacked about 200 feet of being long enough to reach. We did the best we could, but it wasn't enough."

It must have been quite a sight, watching the volunteers pulling the cart along Ocean, then dodging its wheels as it tried to run over them on the downhill stretches.

"The men on the back had all the work to do going downhill," Leidig chuckles in remembering.

A few years later, then Mayor Perry Newberry talked a group of Carmelites to "go into hock" with the bank to back the purchase of a real, honest-to-goodness fire engine—a machine known as a LaVerne, made in Minnesota, and sold only for cash. It ultimately arrived, and the Carmel Fire Department's stature was on the ascendency.

A few days after the arrival, Leidig says it more than proved its worth when fire broke out in a bakery next door to the old Wells Fargo Express Co., office. While the bakery was lost, the neighboring offices were saved.

During the intervening years, Leidig served the department as chief, and ultimately as fire marshal, a job he only recently relinquished to retire. As marshal, he toured the entire city at least twice a month, and he wrote many citations when residents refused to abate fire nuisances.

"The people," he says, "were generally very cooperative, though. Once in a while we'd have the necessary clean-up work done, then add the cost to their tax bills."

He likes to hark back to about 1935 when a theater on Ocean caught fire and Carmel, which had two engines by then, sent both with others coming from Monterey, plus firemen from Pacific Grove and the Highlands to lend a hand.

"The basement of the old Golden Bough was so hot that when one of our boys tried to open the door, the back-draft knocked him 30 feet into the street," he says. "We trained our men to go inside and fight a fire, not just stand outside and try to flood it. We've had good men through the years, and in my opinion, Bob Baker (the incumbent chief and acting marshal) is one of them.

"Anyway, not long after the theater fire, the firemen were invited to a big dinner in the Pine Inn, and everyone said some mighty nice things about us."

Some "mighty nice things" also were said at a retirement dinner for the elderly smoke-eater in the Carmel Legion Hall last weekend when he was presented a plaque by members of the volunteer department. It reads:

"In appreciation for a lifetime of service as chief and fire marshal for the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea."

A native of Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, she was born March 24, 1883.

O'Malleys Returned

Mr. and Mrs. William O'Malley, who took a four month trip on a Norwegian freighter around South America through the Strait of Magellan, have returned, with utter reluctance, to their Carmel home. Surprisingly enough, the passengers were one third Carmel people and included Dick Hagadorn, former art teacher of Carmel High School, Charles Baker, and of course, the O'Malleys.

An especially favored place of Mrs. O'Malley was the Island of Barbados, a British colony in the Lesser Antilles, West Indies. "The people there," she remarked, "seem to exist for the assistance and help of others. If they see you walking down the street with an envelope in your hand, three or four people will come to your side to tell you how to find the post office.

"Buenaventura, the port about which so many derogatory things have been said, was most pleasant and enjoyable," said Mrs. O'Malley. "The people are exceedingly kind and friendly."

In Buenos Aires, the O'Malleys were surprised to find Robert Kennedy attending a news conference. They were permitted to enter the news conference and meet Kennedy because they were Americans. "The people there like Kennedy very much, and the Americans, too. It was an outstanding trip, and the weather was beautiful the whole time."

1966 POT LUCK REVUE

That big, annual community event in Big Sur, the Pot Luck Revue, is now in rehearsal for its 15th season production which will be presented March 24, 25 and 26 in the Big Sur Grange Hall. Reservations and/or information may be obtained from Mrs. Marty Hartman, Big Sur 5831. As in all preceding years the "show" is under the direction of Gene Perrine and Bob Skiles. This year's revue will include new members in the cast, plus such loved veterans as Walter Trotter, Fern and Gulda Trotter, Pat Batlin and Everett Makowski.

UCSB EXTENSION COURSE

By arrangement with the University of California Extension at Santa Barbara, a special credit course is to be offered at Big Sur Hot Springs under the auspices of the Esalen Institute April 3 through 5. The course, entitled "Development of Creativity in Teaching and Thinking," will be a workshop with focus on techniques for developing creativity. It will be directed by George I. Brown, associate professor of education at the university. During the past two years, he has conducted a pioneering project to develop creativity in primary school teachers, principals and students. This program is being expanded to include other districts in the Santa Barbara-Goleta area. The course will carry one unit of professional credit and enrollment will be limited to 30.

BISHOP PIKE

Coming for the weekend of May 13-15 at the Big Sur Hot Springs, also under the direction of the Esalen Institute, will be a seminar led by Bishop James A. Pike of San Francisco and Bishop John Robinson of Woolwich, London. It will include an examination of the new theology which these church leaders are helping to create. Bishop Pike of the Episcopal Diocese of California, a leading advocate of reform in many areas of Christian practice within his church, has encouraged new liturgical forms, courageous social action and a creative review of his church's theology. He is author of several books, including "A Time For Christian Candor."

Bishop Robinson is the Suffragan Bishop of Woolwich. He has become well-known for his book "Honest to God," in which he vigorously questions many of the basic assumptions of contemporary beliefs.

OLD CARS REMOVED

Residents of Big Sur and visitors to this area of extraordinary beauty, have noted with appreciation and interest that two unsightly abandoned automobiles that have been on either side of Scenic Highway One on the approach to Big Sur from the north, have been removed. The cars, abandoned many, many months ago, were gradually stripped, windshields and other glass broken, etc.

The Big Sur Grange, The Coast Property Owners Association, and other community-minded groups and private citizens have been concerned about the situation. Even a letter was written to the governor to see what could be done about abandonment of cars on public highways. But it was Big Sur's own residents, owners of the Big Sur Garage, Eleanor and Don Sheppard, who removed the cars recently and had them disposed of.

"Again and again," Mrs. Sheppard tells us, "people ask and wonder why we, as garage owners, don't just remove such old cars at once. It is not as easy as that, since one has to have a license to remove and dismantle cars, when owners abandon them on public roads. During the 19 months that we have owned the Big Sur Garage, we have spent $1,500 in removing abandoned and junk cars from the highway—this is out of pocket money and represents labor, use of our wrecking equipment, hauling, dump fees, etc."

Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard have owned the Big Sur Garage a little less than two years, a garage that was established in 1957 to serve the needs of the residents of the community and travelers in the Sur Coast area. Theirs is an automobile repair and service business. They operate a tow service and are members of the recognized automobile clubs. For two years prior to coming to Big Sur, the Sheppards operated two service stations in Woodland, near Sacramento. Prior to that Sheppard served for thirteen years with the Monterey police force.

Unincorporated Areas May Pay Higher Taxes For Services

Carmel residents of areas adjacent to the city soon may be paying a larger percentage of the cost of their services as a result of the establishment of service districts in urban unincorporated areas and a resolution passed by the Carmel City Council last week. Noting that the Monterey County Board of Supervisors has scheduled a meeting on March 8 to consider services to be furnished by the county in the newly-formed districts, the council resolved to inform the supervisors "That requests for services within established Service Districts adjacent to municipalities not be favorably acted upon . . . unless such requests include the provision of the total of all services required by urbanized areas."

The board has requested comment from the cities on services to be rendered to such districts. Mayor Herbert Blanks expressed his intention of appearing, also the hope that representatives of other cities in comparable situations might be invited to attend the hearing.

According to findings of the council, the provision of city-type services, such as fire, police and street maintenance, in the urban unincorporated area is being partly financed by taxes paid from within incorporated cities by property owners who do not receive these services from the county but who provide their own services through city taxes, resulting in a tax structure which is inequitable to residents of incorporated cities.

The furnishing of isolated services in urbanized unincorporated areas, the council findings state, tends to discourage the incorporation of such areas or their annexation to contiguous cities and thereby prevents the development of complete services. Additionally, it is in direct opposition to the principle of home rule. Commenting on this area, Mayor Blanks said the council had no intent to encourage nor discourage annexation of unincorporated areas.

The question of tax equalization between county and city taxpayers was originally brought to the attention of the council by Councilman Gunnar Norberg.

The city council, also last week, went on record as opposing the disposal of waste waters from the San Francisco Bay Area, the San Joaquin Delta area and other areas into the Monterey Bay. A copy of the anti-pollution resolution will be sent to Governor Pat Brown and to the California State Legislature.

CENSUS

With the special census being conducted in Monterey County nearing completion, residents living within the county boundaries who believe they have not been counted are urged to complete the printed form below. E. J. Steinfeld, Census Supervisor of the Los Angeles Regional Office, explains that the forms are used to insure the enumeration of everyone within the county limits, even though they were not at home or out of town when the enumerator called.

The preliminary population figures will be released to County officials by March 5. Figures for each municipality will be published at a later date. Mr. Steinfeld states the census to date is excellent and Monterey County can be proud of its many civic minded enumerators and thousands of residents who cooperated so well.

Letters To The Editor . . .

February 16, 1966

Editor,
Re: Annexation vs. Service Area #43.
Dear Sir:

Recently, County Service Area No. 43 including all of unincorporated Carmel, was formed by the Monterey County Board of Supervisors. The formation of this service area was sustained by a small core of people without the general awareness of the public concerned. The primary service for which the area was formed was structural fire protection. However, a service area, once formed, can be used as a taxing vehicle to provide a source of funds for whatever services are deemed necessary by the County Board of Supervisors for the area with no voting by the residents. The cost of these services are added to the local property tax bill of the property owners within the area.

The immediate effect of service area 43 will be an increase of 12 cents to 18 cents per $100.00 assessed valuation on our tax bills for fire protection, according to the proponents of area 43. However, the figure could run 25 cents or far more, as the figures of the proponents are based on a minimum estimate, which contemplates a program that is not adequate, although better than the present. Carmel Highlands pays over $1.00 per $100.00 for its volunteer department.

Contrasting annexation to the City of Carmel with belonging to service area 43 reveals the following:

1. The service area has been formed, whereas successful annexation requires a majority vote of residents.

2. The present representatives reporting to the Board of Supervisors on service area 43 are not elected by the residents of the area nor are they selected from any official body.

3. The people of Carmel elect the entire City Council but the unincorporated area only participates in election of one of five members of the board of supervisors, which body controls the service area, which is administered by an appointed county employee.

4. There is no requirement under the law that the supervisors pay any attention to the requests of the residents of the service area, even if a consensus could be obtained.

5. The County Board of Supervisors decides what services are provided to the service area and the cost. The board meets at times when most people cannot attend. The city council meets at night when most people can attend.

6. The City of Carmel can provide superior services with wider scope at less cost to the taxpayer than similar services provided through the service area. This is because the city is centrally located and need only expand existing facilities, not create new ones.

The creation of service area 43 has produced two inescapable conclusions.

1. Unincorporated Carmel needs additional services, notably fire and police, because of its urbanized development.

2. These services will cost taxpayers in unincorporated Carmel more tax money, whether under the service area or the city.

The choice is thus clear: Do the residents of unincorporated Carmel wish to annex and receive services set by a locally elected city council or for services provided by the county without the ability to control, by elections, the tax decisions of the representatives?

There was once a famous tea party over this very question.

Very truly yours,
Francis P. Lloyd

Carmel Pine Cone
Dear Sir:

Because of the importance of enumerating every possible resident in the special census now underway in Monterey County, and the importance to each municipality for obtaining every possible resident in each town and city, we appeal to you in the public interest to aid us in making certain everyone is enumerated by publishing the enclosed news release and form.

As you know, each municipality showing an increase since 1960 in population will be using these latest Federal Census figures for certification to the State Controller. The State of California uses these figures for the distribution of tax monies to the City Governments — every additional person "counted" means more refund to your local city governments.

Since our census is scheduled to be completed approximately March 1st, publication during the week of February 21 to 26 would be ideal. Can we count on the PINE CONE publishing this form on February 24th?

If we can be of any assistance in regard to other information, please call our office in Salinas; and thanks for your help in the completion of the Census in Monterey County.

Sincerely,
Elden J. Steinfeld
Special Census Supervisor

Arts Council Plans April Meeting On Cultural Activities

Plans were made for a symposium on the arts at a meeting of the Arts Coordinating Council of Monterey County last week. Made up of representatives of eleven art, music and theatre organizations of the area, the council's purpose is to survey the needs of the major cultural activities in the county and make a concerted effort to analyze them and suggest solutions of their problems.

The council decided to begin by holding a public meeting, probably in April, at the music hall on the MPC campus. There, the problems and prospects of the various arts of the area can be presented by local experts in their fields, followed by discussion and a question and answer period with audience participation. An effort is also being made to bring a speaker of national fame in the field of the arts to draw a comparison between national and local developments and suggest ways in which local organizations can benefit from currently increasing national interest in the arts.

Organizations represented on the council are The Bach Festival, Monterey County Symphony Association, American Federation of Arts, Carmel Music Society, Monterey Peninsula Concert Association, the Community Theatre, the White Oaks Theatre. Also, the Choral Society, Monterey Peninsula College, Arts Incorporated and the Junior League of the Monterey Peninsula.

Active membership in the council is open to organizations engaged in or directly supporting the arts in Monterey County. Individuals interested in overall support are invited to become associate members.

Community Hospital Aids College Youth

As a community service, Community Hospital is accepting blood donations to credit the account of David Allen, 22-year-old son of the Reverend and Mrs. Don M. Allen of Pacific Grove.

David, majoring in creative writing and drama at Fresno State where he is in his junior year, has a rare blood disease called hemophilia. Some months ago it was determined that an operation would be necessary on his legs.

Until recent years, surgery on such a patient was not possible because the blood of a hemophiliac does not coagulate. But doctors determined that by giving a hemophiliac enough of an ingredient of normal blood known as anti-hemophiliac-globulin (AHG), his blood would coagulate long enough to permit surgery and recovery.

David received over 200 units of AHG at Stanford Medical Center where he underwent the successful surgery.

The cost of AHG is quite high, but it may be repaid by friends of David Allen through blood donations. Each pint of blood contributed in his name earns credit for four units of AHG. The donation of just one pint of blood saves the minister's family $100. Blood in David Allen's name may be donated at the laboratory of Community Hospital.

CHS Seniors Vie For Bank Of America Awards

Two Carmel High School seniors have been selected to represent their school in this year's Bank of America Achievement Awards program, principal Warren Edwards announced this week. Selected by faculty members, the top winners will receive trophies and have the opportunity to compete for cash awards ranging up to $1,000.

The trophy winners and the study fields in which they were chosen are Dave Erickson, science and mathematics, and Susan Rzeppa, liberal arts. After a screening committee reviews the records, the students chosen for the zone events will be notified during March, with zone competition for local students scheduled for April 28 in Salinas.

Nine other students cited for superior performances in specific fields of study will receive certificates of merit. They are Hazel Jacoby, mathematics; Robert Watson, laboratory science; Ronnie Fukagawa, English; Roger Fonseca, social studies; Constance Norwick, foreign language; Robert Tarbox, music; Barbara Pearson, art; Terry Stegeman, business; Dan Albert, trades and industries.

Purpose of the achievement awards program, now in its 18th year, is "to recognize and honor outstanding seniors whose scholastic attainment, sense of civic responsibility and evidence of leadership give most promise of future success and service to society."

White Oaks Theatre Offers New Satire

"Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mamma's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feelin' So Sad" is the elongated title of the White Oaks Theatre production opening tomorrow night in Carmel Valley.

The satire relates the peculiar life and times of a rich American widow, Madame Rosepettle (Tracy Carr) who tours the Caribbean accompanied by a pet piranha, two Venus fly-traps, a well-travelled casket, and an introverted son named Jonathan (Ron Stark). While in Port Royale, Madame and her entourage encounter Rosalie, a nymphet babysitter (Linda Boblitt), and Commodore Roseabove (Ron Mitchell), owner of the "largest yacht in the harbor . . . the pink one with the lilacs draped about the railing."

When the play made its Broadway debut in 1962, Harold Clurman wrote in The Nation that it offered "a touch of novelty and theatrical piquancy with the taste of an acidulous bonbon, an agreeably poisoned candy." Upon its London opening, the Daily Mail said of twenty-three year old playwright Arthur Kopit, "He writes like an angel or, to be more precise, like a mischievous cherub who has just had a highly diverting season in hell and is dying to tell all about it."

The White Oaks production is under the direction of Gale Peterson who has also created sets for the play. Costumes have been designed and executed by Corliss Nickerson.

"Oh Dad" is slated for a six-week run, Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m., through April 2, with special individual and theatre party rates.

Foreign News Editor Speaks Tomorrow

Edward Radenzel, foreign news editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, will be the speaker for the World Affairs Council of the Monterey Peninsula tomorrow at 8:15 p.m. in Brey Hall, Carmel High School. His subject will be "The United States, Asia and the Communists," and he will direct attention to the dilemma in which Russia now finds herself.

Mr. Radenzel, who has been with the Chronicle for 26 years, is also the foreign news commentator for KQED Television and taught courses in international politics at the San Francisco Adult Education Center. Widely traveled in Europe and the Far East, the speaker recently returned from a trip around the world including visits to Russia, India and Bangkok.

On March 4, the World Affairs Council will have as its speaker Dr. Siegfried Von Nostitz, Consul General of Germany, whose subject will be "Germany's Role in European Integration." The lecture is scheduled for 8 p.m. at Brey Hall.

Party Plans

By Phyllis Jervey

Just a whiff of the wharf and we're mad for fish! It is sheer luxury to wander around the fish stalls and select locally caught specialties at old Fisherman's Wharf in Monterey. A group of small houses belonging to Portuguese fishermen first occupied today's wharf just north of the old Custom House. Built by Thomas Larkin in 1845, the original pier was constructed of stone quarried by captured military deserters, Indians and civil prisoners.

We ourselves vividly recall many good times at Pop Ernst's, soon to be demolished. After "hops" at the Presidio we would rush down to Pop's on the wharf for his incomparable abalone chowder. For policing parties there were also barrels of beer with steamed mussels. This was when the U.S. Cavalry and Field Artillery were jointly quartered at the Presidio. "Policing" didn't mean involvment with M.P.'s but being thrown from ones mount! Honor-bound, the riders would then throw a policing party.

There is still the same flavor and taste of the bay and ocean on old Fisherman's Wharf. After sampling with delight, we have chosen some marvelous fish dishes for your pleasure and approval. But, we haven't been able to produce an abalone chowder exactly like the one Pop Ernst made famous. In those days we were concerned with staying on a horse. Collecting recipes came later during our sedentary years. However, when abalone season opens March 16, you can cook up the following chowder with confidence.

ABALONE CHOWDER

1 stalk celery; 1 leek, white part; 1 green pepper; ½ onion, all chopped; 1 small can evaporated milk; ¾ cup water; 1 potato, cubed; 2 slices diced salt pork; ¼ cup flour or less; 3 slices abalone (½ lb.); parsley, thyme and Worcestershire sauce to taste.

Start abalone in cold water and remove when water comes to a boil. Meanwhile braise vegetables in salt pork and when translucent add flour. Add abalone broth gradually to vegetables, avoiding lumps. Simmer 25 minutes. Grind abalone and add to chowder. Before serving, correct flavor with a dash of thyme, Worcestershire and chopped fresh parsley. Add evaporated milk. Bring just to boiling point — without scorching or the taste will be ruined. Pour into large polished abalone shells with plugged holes. Pass sea biscuits or pilot crackers. From "Fish & Feast" by Liselotte F. Glozer. The abalone shells are sold at the wharf.

At the Mission Trail dinner which the American Spice Trade gave at Del Monte Lodge last Spring, this piquant way of preparing abalone in lime juice was enjoyed.

ABALONE IN LIME JUICE
(Serves 8)

1 lb. fresh abalone; ½ cup fresh lime juice; 1 tbsp. sugar; 1 lb. vegetable oil; ½ tsp. each salt and onion powder; ¼ tsp. garlic powder; 1/8 tsp., each, black pepper and cayenne; fresh parsley, paprika and lime slices for garnish.

Pound abalone until paper thin; cut into bite size pieces. Turn into a deep china bowl. Combine everything (excepting parsley, paprika and lime slices in medium jar with top and shake hard to blend. Pour over abalone. Mix well, cover and refrigerate for at least 24 hours. To serve, place abalone in parsley-lined small abalone shells or chilled cocktail glasses. Sprinkle with paprika and garnish with fresh lime slices.

One of our favorite haunts on the wharf is Anastasia's fish market. Many a time in the past we've chatted with Mama and Papa about seafood and seafaring. What could be more picturesque but Italian-Monterey fishermen in black rubber hip boots, with cigars and mid-day buckets of cioppino (pronounced cho-peeno). This lusty fish stew is a flavor filled meal-in-one-dish. The elder Anastasias have now retired but the family tradition is carried on by sons Joe and Phil who own Mike's restaurant on the wharf. Their crab cioppino is straight from the stove as it is only prepared on order. Men expect third helpings and their women beg for the recipe. Here it is!

MAMA ANASTASIA'S MONTEREY CIOPPINO
(Serves 6)

2 onions, chopped, 2 garlic cloves, minced; ½ cup olive oil; 1 green pepper, diced; 2 green onions with tops, chopped; 2 cans tomato puree; dash, each, crushed oregano, rosemary and sweet basil; salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste. Crab legs; Parmesan cheese; clove-studded lemon slices.

Heat oil in skillet and saute onions, garlic, green onions and pepper. Add tomato puree diluted half and half with water. Add seasonings and simmer. Stir often. Meanwhile, remove shells and tendons from crab legs, leaving them as whole as possible. Add to sauce only long enough to heat through well. Put into flame proof soup bowls, topping each with freshly grated Parmesan cheese. Pop under broiler for about 5 minutes. Decorate with clove studded lemon slices. Colossal ripe olives and Monterey Jack cheese are fancy nibblers while waiting for the cioppino. Expensive in a restaurant, you can prepare this typically California-Italian stew for less at home. So why not become a cioppino addict? A good dry white wine and sourdough crusty Italian bread, garlic-toasted, goes fine. This version of cioppino is quite de luxe as the average fisherman uses any fish cut into 2 inch pieces. Have whatever you prefer but leave the sauce the same; it cannot be improved upon.

Now that salmon fishing has resumed in Monterey Bay, we can again indulge in that aristocrat of fishes. The most delicious and simple way to retain the delicate flavor is this superb:

POACHED SALMON WITH EGG SAUCE
(Serves 4-6)

Place a 3-lb. piece of fresh king or silver salmon on pie pan. Tie pan in square of cheesecloth and lower into saucepan of boiling water to which salt, celery stalks and a bay leaf have been added. Let simmer, covered, for about 20 minutes. Lift out and transfer fish to hot platter. Pour the following sauce over salmon.

EGG SAUCE

2 tbsps., each, butter, flour and milk; ½ tsp. onion salt; ¼ tsp. paprika; 2 hard-cooked eggs; chopped coarsely.

Melt butter and remove from heat. Add flour, stirring until smooth. Gradually add milk, return to heat. Cook until it thickens, then add seasonings with the chopped eggs. Serve hot over fish. Fresh green peas and tiny new potatoes in their jackets make a delicious accompaniment. You can prepare the salmon the same way as above, but serve it cold with a mayonnaise seasoned with minced watercress and lemon juice. Deviled hard-cooked eggs, sliced tomatoes and avocado strips with curly endive turn this into a super salad for a ladies' Lenten luncheon. Maybe you would prefer:

SAUTEED SALMON WITH DILL
(Serves 4)

4 salmon steaks; flour, salt and pepper; ½ stick butter; dill. Dust fresh salmon steaks lightly with flour. Season with salt and pepper. Saute in butter 5 minutes, turning fish carefully with pancake turner. Saute other side about 5 minutes more (depending on thickness of fish). Remove to hot platter. Garnish with fresh dill or serve with Dill Butter: Melt ½ stick butter. Add ¼ tsp. dill seed or a pinch of crushed fresh dill, dried dill or dill salt.

How is that for local flavor? Doesn't it make you want to dash to old Fisherman's Wharf in Monterey? That's right where we are heading now!

Author Niven Busch At MPC March 4

Niven Busch, author of the recently published novel, "The Gentleman from California," will lecture at Monterey Peninsula College armory March 4 at 8 p.m. on "California: New Crystal Ball Forecasting American Politics." He is the second speaker in MPC's spring series on "The Significance of the Far Right."

Free tickets may be obtained by mail when requests are accompanied by stamped, self-addressed envelopes; or they may be picked up at the college administration building switchboard beginning tomorrow.

"The Gentleman from California," which states the premise that an ultra-conservative Californian will be elected president of the United States in 1972, is the most recent of several novels authored by Busch, among which was "Duel in the Sun," a best-seller.

Though never a participant in politics, Busch has "always been interested in politics—as an observer," he says. "The Gentleman from California" was the result of considerable research on the subject.

WHAT'S DOING?

This is the month of Valentine's Day and reminds me that someone once listed phone calls as the third most popular way to propose. Back in 1667 an Englishman, Robert Hooke, developed a "Cupid's Telegraph"—two tin cups connected by a taut string, whereby tender messages might be exchanged. Poor Hooke was dismissed as being "possessed by the devil." But obviously he was ahead of his time and foresaw an engaging way to win a lady's hand!

When you want to call out-of-town—direct or through the Operator—and don't know the number, check the front pages of your telephone directory. There you'll find complete instructions on how to get Long Distance Information. A list of Area Codes (if needed) is also provided for your convenience. And remember, there's never any charge for local or Long Distance information calls.

• • •

FROM A-FRAMES TO ZEBRAS

"FIND IT FAST IN THE YELLOW PAGES!" is a well known slogan. The yellow pages of the telephone book is a complete shoppers guide for all local residents. Since the telephone directories are kept current on a year to year basis the "Yellow Pages" salesmen will again be contacting business customers here in the Monterey Peninsula from March 3 to May 31. For further information please call the business office at 375-1511.

Everyone enjoys a "thank you" note and we do, too. Especially those written by youngsters after a visit from one of our school representatives. One begins, "Thank you for wasting your valuable time on us. It was very exciting . . ." And here's our favorite — "Dear Sir: Thank you for the film I did not see because the teacher sent me out of the room. Yours truly, Lyle."

Superb Performance Of 'La Boheme' At Sunset

BY JACK BENSON

The production of Puccini's opera "La Boheme" in Carmel last week was sheer delight. It was presented by the Goldovsky Opera Theater, a company brought here by the Carmel Music Society as the third event in its current series.

Credit for such superb operatic production must go first to the artistic director, Boris Goldovsky, whose tireless energy, resourcefulness, and enthusiasm in this field since 1946 has earned him the title "Mr. Opera." Efficiency, mobility, and high artistic caliber combine to make the Goldovsky Opera Institute Inc., one of the most significant organizations in American music.

Turning to the group which came to Carmel, top laurels would go to Edward Alley, the conductor, and to Karen Steinke who sang the female lead of "La Boheme," that of Mimi. One would have to look far to find such control at the podium, such inspiring knowledge and love of his work as that of Edward Alley. Miss Steinke's "Mimi" was beautifully convincing, with all its poignancy and bittersweet character. She left little to be desired, vocally or dramatically.

Equally first-rate were the other members of the cast, which included Dean Wilder as Rodolfo, Allen Cathcart as Marcello, John West as Colline, and Michael Tronzo as Schaunard. Special mention should be made of the excellence of Carol Courtman's "Musetta," while Richard Hilfreich, the landlord, and Frank Hilfreich, an admirer of Musetta, gave fine support. And, although there was no mention of the orchestra personnel in the program, a word must be said regarding this keen band which contributed immeasurably to the general excellence of the production.

Previous to this performance of "La Boheme" we felt some slight apathy toward the event in the musical community here, so that it was, in a sense, doubly pleasurable to be greeted by such fresh and expert work on the part of the Goldovsky company. We look forward to their return, and hope it will be soon.

Planning Commission Approves Revised Plan Of New Theatre

Upon recommendation of the design review committee, the Carmel Planning Commission, yesterday, approved revision of the east elevation of the Village Theatre now in construction on the southwest corner of Dolores and Seventh to conform to a deed restriction requiring a five-foot setback. Building was slowed down when the restriction was brought to the attention of the owners by the adjacent property holders. According to one of the four theatre property owners, Arthur Strasburger, the five-foot setback had been overlooked by all concerned.

A service station, a parking lot, a handful of structural alterations and a double handful of signs also received approval from the Carmel Planning Commission at its regular meeting.

In other action yesterday, the commission denied a request by Gunnar L. Reimers for a use permit to make two building sites out of his property on the west side of Camino Real between Ocean and Seventh.

Recommendation of the design review committee brought approval of plans for a new building complex at the southwest corner of Dolores and Fifth. This is the Don Berry building which has been before the commission for some time. Permission for reroofing was granted to Sprouse-Reitz, for remodeling, to the Wayfarer Inn and to a store at the northeast corner of Dolores and Seventh for conversion of an eating place into a shoe store.

Eight sign requests were granted, four with conditions.

Highway Beauty Aim Of Farr Bill

Senator Fred S. Farr (D-Carmel, chairman of the Senate Natural Resources Committee) last week introduced a highway beautification bill to bring California's legislation into line with President Johnson's Highway Beautification Act of 1965. Farr, who was chairman of the Panel on Scenic Roads and Parkways at the White House Conference on Natural Beauty, had this to say about his proposed legislation.

"This bill is a three-pronged measure aimed at billboard regulation on State highways, permitting the acquisition of scenic easements and other interests in land in order to clean up, preserve, and beautify the areas immediately adjacent to but outside the highway right-of-way, and also provides for measures to screen automobile junkyards."

According to the Senator, "California could lose many millions of dollars, up to $70 million, by failure to enact legislation to clean up the unsightliness along our highways because of the penalty provisions in the Federal Highway Act."

The measure would not prohibit cities and counties from enacting more stringent regulations relating to billboards and junkyards.

Decals For Carmel's 50th Anniversary Are Now Available

A minimum donation of $1.00 each will be asked for the attractive decals designed by artist Geza St. Galy for the 50th Anniversary of Carmel-by-the-Sea. This was the decision of the Carmel Arts Commission at a special meeting held Monday to discuss the cost and distribution of the commemorative stickers. Proceeds from donations for the decals will be used to help finance the city's celebration of its 50th birthday during the year, with particular emphasis on events planned for the summer and on October 31, the anniversary of incorporation.

Special rates, the commission resolved, would be made for large quantities, both for establishments with resale licenses and for businesses or individuals wishing to make gifts of the decals. For resale, the minimum donation will be 60 cents each per 100; 50 cents each per 200; 40 cents each per 1,000. As gifts, the minimum donation will be 35 cents per 100.

Until distribution has been arranged, the decals may be secured from Carmel Arts Commission members Gene Elmore, Geza St. Galy, Mrs. Nelson Miles Leoni and Mrs. Barbara Horder West. They are also available at commission chairman Barbara Norberg's shop, the Carmel Yarn and Talent Shop, Dolores and Seventh. Other locations will be announced at a later date.

Heebner Exonerated By Coroner's Jury

A coroner's jury, meeting in the Monterey Council Chambers February 18, absolved Charles S. (Skip) Heebner of any criminal action in the fatal shooting of James Edward Morehouse at the Mission Ranch on December 27.

According to testimony of Mr. Heebner, manager of the dining establishment, he was approached near the front door by a masked man with a gun at about 2:30 a.m. Fearing for his life, Mr. Heebner shot the intruder with a gun he had carried because of a recent Carmel robbery. Although the victim's pistol later was found to be a toy, a knife was also found on his person.

place the district in a better competitive position for recruiting teachers Mr. Patterson pointed out, also, that the existence of an insurance program having the effect of adding non-taxable income to teachers' salaries, would be an added attraction in teacher recruitment.

Approved in principle by the board, though not included in the budget for the coming school year, was a one-month music summer school program designed for children in grades four and above. It would not include offerings in guitar, keyboard instruments, preinstrumental tonettes, choral experience, or for high school students. Estimated cost of the program is under $2,000.

Mr. Patterson presented a report by the district's elementary science instructors relative to the merit of the Redwood Glen science and conservation camp program. In the past, Carmel sixth graders have attended the one-week session at the Redwood Glen tri-county project. The consensus appeared to be that while the experience of the children meeting, living and working with those from other areas is probably valuable, curriculum content and methods are questionable.

Following suggestions by some of the teachers that Carmel might develop a comparable program of its own, board members and teachers debated the possibilities of establishing a project in this area. The board, noting that development of an adequate program presents complex problems and demands time, moved to continue for one year the Redwood Glen camp program. During the year, the district will attempt to draw up alternative proposals for a comparable program.

In other business last night, trustees accepted the resignation of Carl Cardoza, part-time Spanish teacher at Middle School and approved the hiring of Miss Vera Beck as a replacement. James F. Chambers was hired to fill the position, approved at the last board meeting, of arts, crafts and music teacher at Carmel Middle School. Approved was the employment of two elementary teachers for the remainder of the year, under the Title I program. They are Mrs. Elizabeth Parker, Middle School, and Mrs. Marlene Harris, half-day at Tularcitos School.

Expressing the hope that Herbert C. Reuter Jr., science instructor, intends to return to the district, the board granted his request for a year's leave of absence without pay to participate in an Earth Science Academic Year Institute at the University of Indiana.

Action on board rules and regulations relative to classified employees was postponed due to the absence of Assistant Wayne Greenfield, who was reported ill. Postponed, too, because of illness, was a report on the Woods School program by Principal Anna Kohner and the elementary reading report, grades K-4, by David Erskine, River School principal.

The next regular meeting of the board will be held at Tularcitos School on March 9.

Carmel Schools' Income Sources, Tax Rates Compared In CUSD Study

The following figures, showing comparative sources of income and tax rates in Carmel and other school districts together with property valuation rate of increase in relation to the rate of increase in the budget of the Carmel Unified School District, has been made available by Superintendent Medill Bair's office.

SOURCES OF INCOME

	Carmel	Mont'ry City	Mont'ry High	Pacific Grove	Marina
Local property taxes	74%	26%	35%	58%	10%
State apportionments	21%	47%	34%	35%	62%
Federal	3%	24%	12%	5%	25%
Miscellaneous	2%	3%	19%	2%	3%

TAX RATES

	General Purpose Tax	Special Tax	Total
Carmel	2.15	.38	2.53
Palo Alto	4.35	.93	5.28
Pacific Grove	2.84	.75	3.59
Monterey	2.65	.83	3.48
Salinas	2.33	1.42	3.75

The assessed valuation of the Carmel Unified School District for the 1965-1966 school year is $69,428,585. If all of the taxes are paid for the 1965-1966 school year, one cent on the tax rate would raise $6,943. The average increase in assessed valuation during the past five years has been 7.5 percent while the average budget increase during the same period has been 9.1 percent. Based upon the 9.1 percent, the increased amount needed for the 1966-1967 budget would be $220,427.

The basic tax rate applied against the estimated increase in assessed valuation would raise approximately $111,952. The difference would have to be raised by an increase in the tax rate. This does not provide for the $50,000 increase needed in the budget reserves. Although the required tax deficit for 1966-1967 is approximately twenty cents, for the year 1970-1971 it will be a little over fifty-seven cents. The average deficit for the five-year period would be forty cents.

Comparison of the budget for the 1961-1962 school year with 1965-1966 reveals an increase of approximately four percent in the instructional category and a decrease of a little over three percent in the undistributed reserve. The rest of the budget categories remain roughly the same. The undistributed reserve was reduced from $74,501 to $30,509. In other words, part of the gains made in the instructional column are at the expense of the reserve.
